ion of the Parkeville Hydron General Description of the Parkeville Hydropathic Institute. The main tatifding is three stories high, standing back from the street about one hundred feet, with a semicircular grass plot in front, and contains thirty to forty rooms. The grounds around the house are tastefully half out with reasts and planted with trees, shrubs, &c. On the left of the entrance to these grounds is a cottage containing four rooms, used by male patients as a bathing house, with every convenience for "packing," bathing, &c.; on the right of the entrance, about two hundred feet distant, stands a similar cottage, used by the ladies for similar purposes.

If the rear of the Institute, at the distance of one hundred fact, are three other cottages, some eighty feet apart. One of these is the laundry, with a hydrant at the door; the other two are occupied by the servants.

The hydrant water is introduced into these cottages as well as into the main building, and all the waste water carried off by drains under ground. carried off by drains under ground.

Sin waras works

Consist of a circular stone building, standing on the brow of a hill, surmounted by a large ceitar reservoir containing five humired barrels, brought from a never-falling spring of pure celd water in the side of the hill, by "a hydraulic ram," a self-acting machine of cast iron, that is kept constantly going, night and day, by the descent of the water from the spring. The surplus water is carried from the reservoir to a fountain in the water-works yard, surrounded by weeping willows. In the first story of the water-works is a circular room, containing the douche bath, which is a stream falling from a height of about thirty bet, and can be varied in size from half an inch to an anche and a half in diameter. Adjoining the douche room is a dressing room, with marble tables, &c.; the rising douche (for the cure of piles, &c.) is one of the most complete contrivances of the kind, beling entirely under the control of the patient using the same.

There are many other applicances, which can be better understood by a personal examination.

SEARS PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS are decidedly the best books that agents can possibly employ their time in supplying to the people of the United States. They are valuable for reference, and should be possessed by every family in this great republic. There is not a city or town in these United States, not even those of small importance, but contains many eithers to whom these works are indispensable. They are adapted to the literary wants of the Christian, the patriot, the statesman, and the domestic circle, got up in a superior style of art and workmanship; and are not only such books as will sell, but are such as an agent of good principle will feel free to recommend, and willing to see the purchaser again after they have been bought.

Our Plan—The plan the publisher has so successfully carried out for several years; is the obtaining responsible men as agents, who are well known in their own counties, towns, and villages, and have time and disposition to circuitate good and instructive books among their neighbors and friends. Any person wishing to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending $250 or $50, for which he will receive an assortment as he may direct, at the wholesale cash prices.

WILL SOUTH CAROLINA SECEDE FROM THE MERICAN UNION ?-It is said that the counsels of Rhett prevail over those of Cheves and Butler, and that the spirit of secession is rife in the Convention. Secession, then, is probabledeclaratory secession. Now, what will be its consequences? A writer in the Charleston Courier appears to comprehend this subject very well, and he answers it as follows:

"Secession will be opposed by the Federal Government. The Federal Government will not narch troops into the State. This would be a measure of violence inexpedient and unneces sary. It will not establish a floating custom house, as has been supposed, because it would be clumsy and inconvenient. To secure the revenue, it would merely abolish Charleston Georgetown, and Beaufort as ports of entry for the time being.

"How will this proceeding operate on the condition of the State and particularly of the city?

All foreign trade will cease, because a vessel attempting to enter a port other than a port of entry is liable to forfeiture, vessel and eargo. Commerce being annihilated, our merchants must go elsewhere to do business. Capital which depends on trade for employment, must which depends on trade for employment, must go with them. Wharf property will be worth nothing; there will be nothing to land or ship. Dry docks and ship-yards will be valueless; there will be no vessels to repair. The number of vacant houses will be so large that house-rents will be greatly reduced. No new build-ings then would be erected, and mechanics must emigrate with the merchants. emigrate with the merchants. Factors must follow their customers, whose rice and cotton will be sent for sale to other States. Cotton, instead of coming down the railroad from Ham burg, will go up the road through Hamburg to Augusta and Savannah. That part of the road setween Branchville and Charleston will be unused, unless it be for bringing goods to the city, smuggled from other States. The coastwise trade would be destroyed as well as the foreign trade, as the State will tax northern produce, and it will go of course to places where it is not taxed. From those places it will be smuggled into South Carolina—it will be as easy to smuggle into the State as out of it, and everybody admits that the last is very easy. "The causes that will depopulate Charleston will give an immense impulse to the growth of other places. Savannah will double her business and population. She will receive the mer-chants, the mechanics, the capital that we shall have lost. At the very moment when we have no employment for them, she will have double employments for all. It will thus become the direct interest of our neighbors to keep us in the desolate condition to which we shall be reduced. They will wax fat on our misfortunes. If our planters and farmers are so patriotic as not to send their cotton, rice, and other produce to ports out of the State, there will be no money circulating in the State. The banks will be without business paper. There will be no dividends. At the very time when our taxes will be quadrupled there will be no money to pay them. We shall be checkmated-unable to "The people will very soon demand of the ecession leaders that some remedy for this condition of ruin be pointed out to them. What will that remedy be? There can be no fighting-there will be nothing to fight. There can be no appeal to foreign nations—they could have no pretence for complaint. If any man thinks otherwise, let him reverse the case Should England abolish Bristol, or France abolish Havre, as ports of entry, could we complain or object? Shall we send a minister to Europe to ask for help, every foreign state would ignore the independent government of South arolina. Our condition would be at once helpless and ridiculous; we should suffer and command no sympathy, because the evil will be our own choosing both as to its beginning and continuation.

From the Charleston Courier, May 6. AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

This dignified and learned body are now assembled in our city for the purpose of hold-ing their annual meeting, which commences this day, at St. Andrew's Hall, Broad street.

The delegates to this convention receive their appointments from permanently organized medical societies, colleges, hospitals, and lunatic asylums, each delegate holding his appointment for one year. Each local society sends one delegate for every ten of its regular resident members, and one for every additional fraction of two delegates.

Good in Everything .- A writer in a London paper of July, 1776, quoted in the Tribune, speaking of what he calls "the American standard-having a snake with thirteen rattles, and a benevolent philosopher would find "good in everything:

"The rattlesnake is properly the representative of America, as the animal is found in no other part of the world. The eye of this creature excels in brightness most of any other animal. She has no eyelids, and is therefore an tack, nor ever surrenders; she is therefore an emblem of magnanimity and true courage. When injured, she never wounds until she has porter left, Garrison still kept his stand. There given notice to her enemies of their danger. other of her kind shows such generosity When undisturbed, and in peace, she does not appear to be furnished with weapons of any ind. They are latent in the roof of her mouth, and, even when extended for her defence, ap-pear to those who are not acquainted with her to be weak and contemptible; yet her wounds, however small, are decisive and fatal. She is solitary, and associates with her kind only when necessary for their preservation. Her poison is at once the necessary means of di-gesting her food, and certain destruction to her enemies. The power of fascination attributed to her by a generous construction resembles America. Those who look steadily on her are delighted, and involuntarily advance towards her, and, having once approached, never leave her. She is frequently found with thirteen rattles, and they increase yearly. She is beautiful in youth, and her beauty increases with her age. Her tongue is blue and forked as the lightning." A DELIGHTED MOTHER. - A mother who was in the habit of asking her children, before they retired at night, what they had done to make others happy, found her young twin daughters silent. One spoke modestly of deeds and dispositions founded on the golden rule, "Do unto others as ye would they should do unto you." Still those little bright faces were bowed in silence. The question was again repeated.

"I can remember nothing good all this day. dear mother: only one of my schoolmates was happy, because she had gained the head of the class, and I smiled on her, and ran to kiss her: so she said I was good. This is all, dear mother.

The other spoke still more timidly: "A little girl who sat with me on the bench at the school had lost a little brother. I saw that while she studied her lesson she hid her face in her book and went. I felt sorry, and laid my face on the same book and wept with her. Then she looked up and was comforted, and put her arms around my neck; but I do not know why she said I had done her good."

WHY EVERYBODY IS CROSS .- One day little more than half this number. The faculty of Wilson came running into the house where his every regularly constituted medical college send sister Mary was sewing. He held something in his hand which he had found in the yard.

"O, sister Mary !" said he, "I have found vocations is the promotion and perfecting of the measures which have been for several years when I look through it every thing looks red. in progress for the elevation of the standard too. The trees, the houses, the green grass, Mary replied, "Yes, it is very beautiful; and now let me show you how to learn a useful lesson from it. You remember the other day you place of meeting for the national society is thought every person was cross to you. Now, highly appropriate, as well as creditable to the you were like this piece of glass, which makes every thing red because it is red. You were cross because you thought every body around We give below the names of such delegates you was cross, too. If you are in good humor, and kind to every one, they, too, will seem kind THE BEAUTIFUL AND USEFUL.

To the Editors of the American Telegraph. GENTLEMEN: Almost every day opens some new prospect for a permanent union of "the beautiful and useful;" also of the instructive and entertaining. This union is exhibited most strikingly and happily in mechanism, especially viewed in the largest sense of the word natural and artificial mechanism; the mechanism of the heavens and of the earth; telescopic and microscopic mechanism. The subject units simplicity and vastness. Its elements are fitted to the mind and hand of a child of five or of three years old. The combination and expansion of these elements are too varied and too vast for the mind, the hand, or the natural life of any human being fully to master. No one exercise for the primary instruction of children, whether at school or at home, probably more completely unites the beautiful and the useful, or the instructive and entertaining, than those forming and combining the elements of me-chanism, which is nothing more nor less than practical geometry, which should be commenced the moment a child enters school, by putting before him a slate and pencil, with a few simple figures to be copied; it is certain to draw children to school by giving them something to do while there—of course rendering truants un-

I am led to these remarks by an article in your paper a few days since, and more recently in the National Intelligencer, copied from the New York Mirror, touching the progress and results of "Scientific Mechanism" in that city. The Mirror states that many men of lib-eral education are becoming practical mechan-ics, pursuing at the same time the study of geometry and other branches of mathematics at the foundation of mechanism. Giving to mechanics the first standing in society, and depriving tippling-shops, in a measure, of their atractions, are among the results already manifest, as produced by rendering science practical and the mechanic arts scientific. The progress of public sentiment, both on scientific me ism and scientific agriculture, is too evident to be mistaken and too powerful to be resisted.

Very truly, yours,

H.

THE AMERICAN SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY held its anniversary in New York on Monday evening. The receipts for the past year have been $20,899 91; expenditures, $20,446 57. The Sailors' Home in New York has bad thirty thousand five hundred boarders since its opening, nine years ago, and 2,525 within the past year. Eighty-two sailors deposited in the Sea-man's Savings Bank within the year $5,247, Newdenhare, Cincinnati; D. H. Tucker and C. P. Johnson, Richmond, Virginia; G. W. Miltenberger, Baltimore, (Md.); F. W. Powell, Middleburg, Va.; J. C. Lumpkin and Hugh McGuire, of Virginia; J. H. Hook, St. Mathews, Valparaiso, Rio Janeiro, St. Thomas, Havana, Havre, Bordeaux, Gottenburg and Stockhelm. Similar laborers are to be employed in other fields. A resolution was introduced, and seconded by Lieut. Ap Catesby Jones, to memorialize Congress to abolish the grog ration in the navy. Twelve thousand American scamen entered the port of Havana during the past year.

SYRACUSE, (N. Y.) May 7.-The anti-slavery society met at 10 o'clock this morning, in the Market Hall. They had previously entered into oonds in the sum of $10,000, to make good all damage which might accrue from anything that would result from riot. It had been previously reported in the place that Captain Rynders, the fourteenth budding"—thus expatiates upon reported in the place that Captain Rynders, the amiable qualities of the rattlesnake. Such from New York, was to be present, with a gang, for the purpose of making an attack, and breaking up the meeting.

Mr. Garrison was elected president, and Messrs. May of Boston, and Waker of Ohio secretaries.

After prayer and singing, Mr. Garrison adimal. She has no eyelids, and is therefore an dressed the meeting, denouncing the citizens of emblem of vigilance. She never begins an ator hall, in which to hold their meeting. His speech was quite exciting, and when our rewas no attempt to create the least disturbance

> NEW OBLEANS, May 8 .- The Europa's news New Orleans .- The despatch of the Europa's news sent from Baltimore this morning by the O'Reilly line of telegraph at 8 o'clock, reached here in about an hour afterwards, and will be published in the evening edition of the Picayune. The news has depressed the cotton market, and holders are willing to submit to a decline of 1@ act.

> PITTSBURG, May 8 .- Steamboat Accident .-An accident occurred here to-day on the Monongahela slack-water navigation. As the steamer Atlantic was passing Lock No. 4, the gate gave way, and the upper one closing against her, the water passed out, leaving her in a very critical situation. No one, fortunately, was injured, and the company had another boat to supply her place.

NEW YORK, May 8 .- The ship Huntington, of Baltimore, arrived here to-day from Canton Capt. Cook was left behind on account of sick-

Boston, May 8 .- Negro Excitement .- There has been considerable excitement here among the negro population for the last few days, in consequence of one of their number, T. B. Smith, opposing, before a committee of the Legislature, the project for a separate school for blacks. Last night he was violently assaulted by three negroes and badly injured. Upon the approach of the watch two of the negroes escaped in a carriage, but the remaining one was captured. The other two were arrested this morning on the information obtained from the one taken last night. Their names are McKes and Brown. NEW YORK, May 8 .- Arrival of the steamer Union .- The steamer Union arrived to-day, in six days and ten hours from New Orleans. She encountered a very severe storm on Sunday evening. She brings $54,700 in specie.

General Scott, Adjutant Jones, and the celebrated Ravel family, are among the passengers. BEECHER says, in his acute lecture on Character, that we are all too anxious " to get something for nothing-as much as we can at the lowest cost." A vessel arrived at Savannah a few days since, from Providence, with a quantity of machinery intended for a new cotton factory about to be started in the State of Georgia.

A greater breadth of land is now being ploughed up in Ireland for potatoes than during the last four years.

Napoleon's Ofinion of the Press .- "A journalist," said the great Napoleon, "is a grumbler, a censurer, a giver of advice, a regent of sovereigns, a tutor of nations. Four hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a hundred thousand bayonets.
